PROVISION BY MEANS OF LIFE ASSURANCE.

THE preference shown by the Assuring Public last year in selecting the Standard Life Office for Assurances amounting to upwards of £1,400,000, a sum which considerably exceeds the new business of any of the Scottish Life Offices, may probably be attributed in a great measure :—

1. To the magnitude of the Company's Funds and the select nature of the investments.
2. To the steady and unfluctuating character of its annual results.
3. To the comprehensive and liberal conditions of STANDARD POLICIES and the Company's promptitude in the payment of claims.
4. To the old established and influential connections of the Company.
5. To the strict control exercised over its expenditure and general management.

Forms of proposal and prospectuses may be obtained on application.

AUSTRALIAN WINES.

A CONSIDERABLE

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

THURSDAY EVENING, SEPT. 7.

REUTER'S closing telegrams of yesterday have not come in up to the time of writing, and this has necessarily tended to restrict business, although judging from what we hear of private advices there is nothing in the state of the home markets to impart increased activity here.

The result of yesterday's biddings for Council drafts is in, from which it appears that the demand for remittance to this side is less active than it was, 92 per cent. of the tenders at 1s. 8d. having obtained allotments as against only 25 per cent. last week. Of Silver shipments are advised of £120,000 and of Gold £10,000 to this port.

EXCHANGE to-day has again ruled very quiet with practically nothing doing. The tendency so far as it goes may be called weaker, and notwithstanding the minimum fixed for Councils we are inclined to think we shall see a slightly lower level for mercantile bills before long.

For ready paper we still quote :—

Bank Bills on demand	.....	1s. 8 1-32d. per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	.....	1s. 8d. "
Do. 3 months' sight	.....	1s. 8 7-32d. "
Credits 3 "	"	1s. 8 5-16d. "
Francs 3 "	"	2 14½ "

On Calcutta rates are unaltered at ¼ premium for demand, 7-16 discount for 60 days' sight.

In GOVERNMENT PAPER there is nothing doing, and values remain as before at Rs. 100⅜ for Fours and Rs. 107½ for Fours-and-a-half.

SHARES.—Bank of Bombays are still in request and are to-day Rs. 5 higher at Rs. 770. New Colaba Company's are Rs. 5 higher at Rs. 830. In Press Companies we notice an advance of Rs. 5 in Berars, Mofussil and New Indian. Spinning and Weaving Mill Companies are dull and in two or three instances Rs. 5 lower. Bombay-Burmah Trading Company are Rs. 15 higher at Rs. 2,600.

In COTTON no business worth noticing has transpired. Sellers are perhaps easier to deal with by Re. 1 per candy, but the sticking point just now is quality. At home the only demand is for the higher classes, above good ; of which there is simply no stock available.

SEEDS and WHEAT are very quiet, especially the latter, for which the home demand seems practically at a standstill.

FREIGHTS keep very flat. For Liverpool the current quotations are now 25s. for Wheat and 30s. for Measurement, and even at these figures the quantity of cargo offering is very small, nor will shippers book forward.

PIECE-GOODS remain in the same quiet position as for some months past. The consumption is very moderate, certainly we should say below the average, and dealers accordingly are only working from hand-to mouth.

COALS are perhaps in rather more request, but so far no extent of new business has resulted. Some local speculators have been offering at comparatively low prices, but real importers are very conservative in the face of the small extent of tonnage offering outwards. With 40s. offering home, outward freights would no doubt admit of cheap coals, but at 10s. under that figure, steamship-owners are naturally chary about sending their boats in this direction.

The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1882.

FROM Simla the statement is repeated that Sir Garnet Wolseley's advance is absolutely stopped for want of transport. We have already given our reasons for doubting the completeness of this explanation of the pause in military operations. Two shiploads of railway stock were brought out from England for the special purpose of the advance upon Zagazi and Cairo. The line is in our possession up to Kassassin. Why are not the locomotives and wagons now utilized ? What is become of the seventy-five wagons captured from Arabi near Magfar ? We say nothing about the large number of mules sent from Bombay, and the other transport animals procurable elsewhere. However, the fact is plain enough that the military operations, which

THE EDUCATION COMMISSION AT POONA.

(FROM OUR OWN REPORTER.)

POONA, SEPT. 7.

The Reverend R. Hume was examined to-day on behalf of the American Marathi Mission. He advocated the formation of a committee consisting of enlightened representatives of all religions current in India to draw up a series of lessons for the use of Government schools. He thought it would be difficult to give freedom and authority to local bodies, yet such a step would ensure primary education to all classes.

The Reverend F. Zeigler, of the Basel Mission, said every act of the Government in India must be felt as an interference with the religion of some portion of the community; and it was the duty of a Christian Government to let the millions partake of the blessings of the religion of truth and civilization without coercion. He believed Government should withdraw from the direct management of schools.

A CODE of rules for regulating the business of the High Courts is published in yesterday's Bombay Government Gazette.

THERE were two deaths from cholera in Bombay last week. The total death-rate was 23·20 per thousand per annum, as compared to 28·78 in the corresponding week of last year and to 39·54, the mean rate for the first week in September during the previous five years. The number of deaths from cholera reported in the districts is 104, of which the Kaira collectorate is credited with 44, Satara 32, Sholapur 13, Ahmednagar 5, Thana [illegible] Sholapur each 4, Khandesh and Poona [illegible]

MESSRS. M. TOMSON [illegible] Brunn in Moravia, have [illegible] band of the Bombay Volunteers with a brass cornet-a-piston [illegible] Janni, Imperial and Royal Austro-[illegible] Consul.

THE Pioneer believes that "although no definite assurances on the subject have yet been given by the Home Government, the character of communications received by the Government of India tends to show that the Home Government will not insist eventually on the payment of the Indian Contingent expenses by this country."

IT is rumoured that when Lieutenant-Colonel H. Collett removes to the Adjutant General's Department, as he is expected to do shortly, the command of the 23rd Pioneers will go to Lieutenant-Colonel G. N. Channer, V. C., at present attached to the 32nd Pioneers. If this is so, the Allahabad paper remarks, it will be rather hard on Major H. Paterson, who with only three years' less service has been in the regiment since 1866, accompanying it through the Abyssinian and Afghan campaigns, and who must be closely identified with its present state of efficiency.

IT is said that in the 20th Punjabis there is a Subadar-Major who has gallantly fought for Britain in no less than thirty-three actions or skirmishes, and boasts of being able to attach eleven medals to his brave breast.

FROM the accounts issued by the Department of Finance and Commerce, it appears that the trade by land of British India with foreign countries during the 12 months ending March 31, 1882, was less flourishing than in the two previous years. The total value of the imports was Rs. 4,59,14,842 against Rs. 5,02,20,477 in 1880-81, and Rs. 4,91,76,400 in 1879-80. The export figures were: for 1881-82, Rs. 886,65,403; for the previous year, Rs. 9,70,75,113; and for 1879-80, Rs. 9,21,02,723. It is noticeable that the trade with Upper Burmah showed a marked falling off, the value of the imports and exports combined being nearly sixty-five lakhs less in 1881-82 than in the preceding twelve months.

A CORRESPONDENT suggests that the "Swiss" adviser of Arabi Pasha is probably a Prussian pervert named Blum Pasha, who was for a long time a useful member of the Turkish Military System, and some little time ago went to Cairo. Having embraced Mahomedanism, he was treated with every consideration by the Sultan.

A CORRESPONDENT, "Audio et Video," writes to the Pioneer on the subject of Sir Garnet Wolseley's advance, as to [illegible] Reuter and the special correspondent [illegible]:—"A glance at the map will, [illegible] explain Sir Garnet's intentions. [illegible] position of the spot where the late [illegible] on, one will clearly perceive [illegible] place, spelt Cassasine, to the [illegible] abandoned line from Suez to Cairo [illegible] desert track of some thirty [illegible] not be at all surprised if his Tel-el-Kebir if he finds it very [illegible] and throw a compact little force across by a forced march to the position indicated. This spot is not more than seventeen miles from Cairo, and only ten miles from a small branch of the abandoned railway still in working order, which would put it within seven miles of the Cairo railway station; from thence to Calioub, the junction on the direct line to Zag-a-Zig, is only 8 miles by rail and on the main line from Alexandria to Cairo, besides being only twenty miles by rail to the important bridge of Biuha in Arabi's immediate rear. Arabi would then be compelled to abandon the whole of his line of defence from Kassassin to Binha, and would find his communications with Cairo, interrupted, and the line from Zag-a-Zig to Cairo would fall into Sir Garnet Wolseley's possession without his having to strike a blow at the strong positions of Tel-el-Kebir and Zag-a-Zig."

FOR unfortunates returning from three months' leave the passage by the P. and O. mail-steamer Cathay must have been singularly vexatious, according to the information received by an up-country paper. First, in lieu of the direct journey from Brindisi to Port Said, the vessel proceeded to Alexandria, and was there called into harbour by the Admiral and detained eight hours on a pretext of carrying despatches—which eventually she never carried. Secondly, owing to a paucity of coolie labour the Cathay remained at Suez twenty-six hours. Thirdly, her engines twice broke down in the Red Sea, involving anchoring for periods of twelve and six hours, when to make the detentions thoroughly enjoyable the steward took the opportunity of declaring that the sodawater had run out and that little ice was left. Fourthly, the sadly used passengers enjoyed the society of the mutinous lascars of the s.s. Carthage. No terrible results seem to have followed this arrangement, but it did not add to the comfort of the luckless individuals returning to their Indian homes.

A NEW YORK telegram, dated August 13, states:—A despatch received here from Havana announces the arrival at Jamaica of William Westgate, who was arrested at Puerto Cabello, on the 16th July last, on his own confession as one of the Phœnix-park murderers. The despatch adds that there is strong evidence connecting the prisoner with the crime.

IRELAND is not the only country in which gross outrages are perpetrated. A telegram from the Paris correspondent of the Daily News, dated August 17, states:—"Serious disturbances have occurred at Monceau les Mines, near Autun, Saone-et-Loire. Some miners on strike, after writing letters threatening death to the Mayor and two directors of the mines, blew up the church door with dynamite, pillaged two nunneries, and arrested two monks, who, however, they soon released. The Prefect, who was in Paris, went by express to the scene of disorder, and requisitioned General Scheegans with a detachment of line troops from Macon and Chalons. It does not yet appear that any of the rioters have been arrested. They passed last night in the woods singing, although the rain poured down in torrents."

THE Gaulois says that Prince Ibrahim Pasha, aged 23, the fourth son of the ex-Khedive Ismail, has asked and obtained his father's leave to go to London to solicit from the Duke of Cambridge permission to serve as a private in the English army in Egypt. He promises not to remain in Egypt, where his brother reigns, after the end of the campaign. This Egyptian Prince was educated at Woolwich, where he was known to General Adye. He obtained a corporal's stripes, fourteenth out of forty-five competitors. Ibrahim was in London when the last mail left.

THE Vienna correspondent of the Standard, telegraphing on Aug. 13, says:—From a source generally well informed, I learn that a confidential correspondence and exchange of opinions is going on just now between several of the Powers on the question of an eventual occupation of Tripoli by Italy. It is said that at the first opportunity—on the occurrence, for instance, of any fresh difficulty of an international character—a pretext will be found for carrying this scheme into effect. The French Government, I am told, offers no opposition to the plan. The naval and military armaments which the Italian Government are now engaged in preparing are said to be intended for the realization of this scheme.

A TELEGRAM received at Constantinople from Tripoli announces that a mission sent by the Sultan to Bornu to ask the ruler of that State to recognize His Majesty as Caliph has returned without success to Tripoli, the Sultan of Bornu having refused to recognize Abdul Hamid in that quality.

MR. BRADLAUGH has issued a notice to his friends throughout the country requesting them to bring all possible pressure to bear upon members of Parliament during the recess with respect to the "constitutional question at Northampton," in view of the possibility of bringing forward the matter during the autumn sitting, when he intends to make another effort to take his seat. Mr. Bradlaugh asks his friends to obtain a pledge from the members who represent them that they will support the Government in the event of the matter coming before the House.

THE St. James's Gazette says:—Lord Hartington is vastly surprised at the rough estimate of the cost of the Indian expedition to Egypt, which has been telegraphed by the Indian Government. The bill even now is put at nearly two millions. How much will it grow to by-and-bye? Lord Hartington thinks there will be a surplus at the close of the year sufficient to meet it; but he seems to be rather shaken (though he did not say so in so many words) as to the propriety of putting this charge upon the Indian people. But from the point of view of principle it does not matter, of course, whether the cost of the Indian expedition is one million or three. If it is right that the people of India should pay the smaller sum, it is right that they should pay the larger. However, it is very likely that this new estimate of the Indian Government will work some change in the intentions of the Government at home, especially as they had already perceived how unpopular those intentions were.

A STRANGE story comes from Marseilles, the substance of which is that the son of a wealthy merchant, with a fortune of two and a half millions sterling, has for the last forty years been shut up in a madhouse, though he is, and always has been, perfectly sane. Whether he is really sane or not remains of course to be proved, for the case will [illegible] to be tried; but the generally admitted facts [illegible] to be these. M. Jean Mistral, when twenty-three years of [illegible] fell in love with the daughter of a Polish exile and married her against his father's will. The father was not to be moved by the entreaties of the young couple, and left them to beg their bread. As the marriage had been celebrated in Poland, he contrived to have it declared null and void; and then, after several violent scenes with his son, his doctor signed a certificate of the latter's insanity. The young man was shut up in the departmental asylum; and though his father bequeathed him the whole of his fortune, there he has remained ever since. During that time his fortune has been administered by his family; one of his nephews being the well-known Provençal poet. Thus far there is no difference of opinion; but while several doctors have declared him to be insane, one or two of his relations have taken up the case, and a petition addressed to the Chamber of Deputies, asking that he might be set at liberty, has been favourably reported on by the Committee to which the Minister of the Interior referred it. The Committee has advised the Minister to grant the prayer of the petition; but this has not yet been done, and it may be safe to predict that the lawyers will get a considerable share of the fortune in dispute.

THE Italians are trying to push their way in Abyssinia, as well as at Mandalay. A Naples correspondent writes:—The Italian travellers Bianchi and Sicata are at present in Naples, for the purpose of arranging a partly private expedition to Africa. The Italian Government is going to send a messenger to King John of Abyssinia, with presents and the plan of an amicable treaty; Bianchi and his companions will form part of the expedition. The gifts to King John will consist of natural and artificial precious stones, guns of large calibre for hunting elephants, and various nick-nacks; amongst the latter some barrel organs from Geneva. After presenting the gifts, the Government official will return to Italy by way of the Red Sea; but Bianchi and his companions, at the expense of Signor Rocca, a banker who makes good use of his large fortune, will prosecute their journey into the interior of the country, with the view of assuring a means of commerce for the Italian station at Assab, which, when once fairly established, is very likely to succeed, as there are till now by no means sufficient oulets for the riches of the interior of Africa.

WHAT is to become of John Dunn? the St. James's Gazette asks. Cetewayo's best friends are of opinion that as soon as the restored monarch is well settled amongst his adherents he will "go for" John Dunn; and the question is, in that case will the British Government interfere for Dunn's protection? Probably not. And yet if Cetewayo hates and wishes to destroy him, it is because the English Government ought in honour to protect him. For in the late troubles in Zululand John Dunn did the English very great service; and Cetewayo has never forgiven this, neither have the Colensoites. That the restored King will not rest till he has revenged himself on Dunn may be regarded as certain; but if he is permitted to revenge himself it will be most disgraceful to the Government, which ought not to allow any man to [illegible] for having helped England in a time of great VICTORIA now claims the glory of owning the biggest of all the living "big trees" in the world, so far as height is concerned. In the Dandenong district at Fernshaw has recently been discovered a specimen of Eucalyptus amygdalia, or almond-leaf gum, which has been accurately measured as reaching the enormous height of 380 feet before throwing out a single branch, and 430 feet to the top, and having a girth of 60 feet at some distance above the ground. Some idea of what a height of 430 feet represents may be gained from the fact that this gum-tree, if growing by the side of the Houses of Parliament at Westminster, would overtop the clock-tower by exactly 100 feet.

THE Marquis de Galliffet, now in command of the 12th Parisian Army Corps, has issued an order of the day which has excited some merriment in Paris. It runs thus:—"Officers of late years have shown a lamentable tendency as regards the wearing of uniform. The sleeves are far too wide, and the pantaloons are tight above and ridiculously large below. The boots affect the form of those worn by the Chinese in the days of the League. The hair is cut in the most effeminate fashion, and in the style which Alexander Dumas fils has stigmatised in one of his most charming comedies. The Article 308 of the Regulations, which has not been repealed, says, however, the hair of officers, non-commissioned officers, and men must be cut short, especially behind; it should never form tufts or curls. It is, therefore, in a spirit of contradiction, and by way of opposition, that they afford themselves the luxury of two brushes which Draner has made us acquainted with, in his witty caricatures. This system is all the more to be regretted, because the fashion is borrowed from a public which is not remarkable for its love of arms, and whose intelligence is on a level with its virile tastes." This is pretty well for a marquis addressing Republicans, but he has no notion of his officers imitating the commercial swells on the Boulevards. It is to be hoped, however, that this order of the day will not have the same disastrous consequences as when the edict went forth for shearing off the old pigtails, and trimming the hair à la Brutus.

THE MILITARY FRACAS AT KURRACHEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Your "account of what really occurred" at Kurrachee on the 10th Aug. has taken us all by surprise. I may safely say that nearly every word of it is incorrect. Both our local papers published articles quite opposed to what you state were the facts. The Editor of the Beacon gleaned his story, he says, "from the officials of the Fouzdaree," and the Editor of the Civil and Military Gazette was favoured with his "authentic facts by gentlemen who were in the midst of the fray, and consequently saw for themselves all that they describe." Both assert that there was a riot; that about 30 men were injured; that a large amount of property was rifled; that at least 100 Beluchis, providing themselves with heavy sticks on their way from the Malakhra, took part in the emeute; and that though they did not remove cumbrous articles, they did purloin "money or small gold and silver articles they could carry easily." You, however, deny that there was a riot; deny that any property was rifled; and deny that the 29th were concerned in the affair to a greater extent than is implied by their having "upset some tradesmen's stalls and struck some of the police." You ignore altogether the fact that about 30 men were injured; some of them bleeding profusely—a fact which the police inspector who took down the statements of these unfortunates, and who was himself hurt in the melée, cannot contradict without falsifying his own record; a fact which the medical registers at the Bunder-road Dispensary and the Civil Hospital abundantly substantiate; and a fact which is so notorious as to require hardly any proof. Some of the minor details of your account are equally incorrect. It was not three men of the 29th who got into a dispute with a woman, but a single individual only. His comrades did not rescue him then and there, but when he was being marched up to the lock-up and they passed by. The wrestling matches were not going on "close by," but at a distance of two miles. Anyone having the least local knowledge would have informed you that the Malakhra grounds are situated in camp, which is surely not "close by" the town. It was not 10 or 12 of the 29th who were the rioters, but at least 100. Your 10 or 12 Beluchis were not "looking on," but were enjoying their sports when their comrades excited them by their coloured version of the tussle with the police. They did not "make a rush to help their comrades," but came yelling down the public road to avenge (what they imaginary insult offered by the police. The "report that the 29th were looting the town" was not a canard, but a sad, sober truth. Lastly, the Superintendent of the Police and the Collector did not "proceed to the scene of the alleged riot" in the evening, but at half-past 9 p. m., if not later, when the riot had died out, the Beluchis having betaken themselves to their quarters to answer their roll-call. Either "the officials of the Fouzdaree" and "the gentlemen who were in the midst of the fray" are to be trusted, or they are not. If they are to be trusted, your correspondent or informant has been misled. To put it in plain words, were the Kurrachee papers telling a lie? If they were, it is really curious that the whole town should conspire to corroborate their statements, and be ready to swear that the lie is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

In Western India no rain is reported at any place north of Mount Abu. The air is calm, or the winds are very light, except at Roorkee and Mussooree. Rain to-day:—Darjeeling, over 5 inches; Bombay, Mercara, Tuyetmyo, and Rangoon, over 2 inches; Gya, Chittagong, and Goa, 1 to 2 inches; Mount Abu, Malegaon, Masulipatam, Mangalore, and Tounghoo, over ½ inch. THE EDUCATION COMMISSION AT POONA.

MR. OXENHAM cross-examined:—

By Mr. Jacob.—I have no means of tracing the career of a graduate from a college other than a Government institution, so I cannot say whether such a graduate has a better chance of Government employment than a graduate from an aided college. I think that the present personnel of high schools would be sufficient to meet the new requirements of examination. The Government scholarships in the Deccan College amount to about Rs. 300 per month. These scholarships were originally founded from funds devoted to education taken over from the Peishwa.

Q.—If these scholarships were no longer exclusively tenable in the Deccan College and were liable to be competed for in the whole of the Deccan district, do you think that the people of the Deccan would have any just ground for complaint?

A.—If the founders' wishes are to be regarded I should think they would.

Q.—It has been suggested by witnesses before the Commission that the Deccan College should be closed or the scope of its teaching narrowed, and I find that a similar proposal was made in 1823. Do you know what were Mr. Mountstuart Elphinstone's reasons for maintaining and developing the college at Poona at that time?

A.—I have not the minute by me, but as far as I remember his reasons were, firstly, that the abolition of the College would involve a breach of good faith on the part of the British Government so to transfer the revenues; and, secondly, that it would be politically undesirable to deprive Poona of the College.

Q.—Do you think that the abolition or reduction of the Deccan College would now be viewed with general disfavour in the Deccan?

A.—I have every reason to think that such would be the result, as in addition to the reasons existing at the time of Lord Elphinstone's minute, we have an additional reason for maintaining the College in the fact that the cost of the present buildings—largely contributed to by Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy on the understanding that the college would be maintained in its present form and on its present site.

In reply to further questions Mr. Oxenham stated that he was aware that his proposal to allow the fee fund to accumulate at interest for the benefit of the college would involve some extra expenditure; but he calculated that four years would be sufficient to meet the whole of the present charges for library, scientific apparatus, &c. The present grant for this purpose was Rs. 500 per annum. In Ireland the grant for the same purpose was £500 and in England it was much higher.

By Mr. Telang (the questions being put for him by Mr. LeeWarner).—In the event of the Deccan College being full I should declare that such was the case, and the applications increased in number I would raise the standard of admission, as has been done in Daly and other Colleges at Oxford. Four years ago I advocated to the Government of India the desirability of restricting the maximum number of students to 150, having regard to the size of the college and the strength of the teaching staff. Probably a private native-managed college would not be a profitable investment at first, but I think it could make so after a few years.

Q.—Do you hold the opinion that the State should abandon the charge of all primary education?

A.—Certainly not, unless higher education is adequately provided for without the assistance of the State.

By Mr. LeeWarner.—I think that the Deccan College meets a local want, its fees being lower than in Bombay, and the cost of education being less; and that for that reason it occupies an exceptional position as a Bombay college.

Q.—Would not the same arguments justify the maintenance of a State college at Ahmedabad, which is much further from Bombay?

A.—I am not aware that the inhabitants of Guzerat have the same reluctance to resort to a Konkan College as the Deccanees have.

Q.—Would you consider it reasonable in view of the cost of maintaining two State colleges situated so near to each other as Poona and Bombay to limit the number of students in the Deccan College, and if so to what number?

A.—I have already officially recommended 150 as the maximum number of students to be admitted to the Deccan College. The present number of students in the college is 120. I am of opinion that a third college at Ahmedabad would be quite unnecessary, as the inhabitants are fully provided for by the present college.

By the President.—I will undertake to provide the Commission hereafter with a table tracing the careers of a considerable number of the students after leaving college. I will mention one case now, that of Mr. Vishnu Moreshwar Mahajani, an ex-student and fellow of the college, and now headmaster of the Amraoti High School, who sent me, as the first fruits of his success in life, Rs. 1,000 towards founding a Sanscrit prize in the Deccan College. I believe that a Matriculation examination is quite unnecessary for strictly university purposes, as I fail to see the object of any such examination; but I believe that a middle-class examination conducted by the university would be of great value to a young man who does not wish to enter on a university career.

Q.—May we take it then that its defects you refer to in the present university examination arise from its dual character, and from its being applied to two distinct classes—those who enter a university and those who do not—and from its being used for two distinct purposes, viz., as a university test and as a certificate for obtaining employment?

A.—That is precisely my meaning. I may add that when I was serving as syndic to the Bombay University on more than one occasion, the dual character of the present examination prevented our adoption of reforms which we ourselves felt to be desirable: for example, we proposed to make a really competent knowledge of some vernacular part of the examination; but it was impossible, because a knowledge of English and of a classical language was necessary, and we thought it unreasonable to require a really competent knowledge of three languages from a boy of 16.

Q.—Do you think that from your experience as University examiner and syndic, it would be practicable to introduce into India a middle-class examination for young men not intended for a university career on a somewhat similar plan to that adopted in the English universities?

A.—I think it would be very desirable, and if funds can be provided I see no difficulty. I think that a portion of the grant for education might be well expended in meeting any charges that might be incurred in making the alteration. I would abolish the Matriculation and spend the money on middle-class examination for young men who are not going to follow an University career.

Q.—Would you favour the Commission with your views regarding the constitution of boards which you would entrust with the setting up of schools? Also how would you decide as to whether the minimum of education had or had not been given? Whether you would do so by means of the Educational Department, by district officers, or how would you do it?

Witness.—That is rather a large question.

The President.—It is a large question, but you throw a bomb-shell upon us. In the first place, how would you constitute your boards?

Witness.—I should like to defer my reply until I have studied the English Act.

The President.—You have made a most important suggestion if it is workable, and I should like to have your views as to how it would be worked. To whom would you charge the cost of these compulsory boards?

Witness.—I should like to consider that.

After some conversation it was arranged that the witness should take copies of the questions and subsequently forward his answers to them to the Commission.

Q.—When you recommend in your evidence that the direct management of the Government and of the Director of Public Instruction should cease in the case of colleges, would you base the entire control of the college in its principal, or would you appoint a managing body of each college? Would you make the principal alone directly responsible to Government, or would you have a managing body, or what would you suggest?

A.—I would suggest that the principal and staff of professors should be jointly responsible.

Q.—Then in point of fact you would make the principal and staff of professors a sort of senate?

A.—I may mention that the only attempt that has been made during my twenty years' experience to interfere in my college proved to be altogether futile. (Laughter.) I don't wish to speak in opposition to the Director of Public Instruction. He is a very able man.

The President.—No, I would rather not put that down. We will record your answer without alluding to any by-gone battles.

The Commission adjourned.

THE LATE MR. A. H. WADIA'S WILL.—Mr. Inverarity applied to Mr. Justice Bayley at the High Court yesterday, with the consent of the other side, that the ladies of to think that you, and you alone of every one of my sons, are entitled to be considered by me. It has always been my wish to treat all my sons impartially and alike. I do not wish to favour one more than the other. In my eyes you are all equal, and I desire to see every one of you prosper in the world. There is plenty of room for you all, and with the assistance that I can give, there is no reason why you should not make men of yourselves, and instead of disgracing our name, do credit to it. If you had proper pride you would be as desirous, as a brother, to see your brothers getting on in the world, as I should be as a father to see my sons getting on. After a great deal of thinking about it, I came to the conclusion that the best thing to be done was to have one or two of your brothers aforesaid with you in the business. Your life is uncertain, as well as mine, and I have often thought what a pity it would be if we were to die, leaving none of the younger members of the family to fill our places in the business. For these reasons it was my wish that your brother Hormarjee should come into the office. From the very first you obstinately set your face against this, and you have done all in your power to make his position in the office painful and disagreeable to him. I am glad to say that he has shown a better spirit than yours in the way he has put up with your unkind and unbrotherly treatment of him. He has never complained except when he was obliged to do so; and I am sure now, if you were to show him only common civility, he would prove that his disposition was not a bad one, by forgetting the past and working harmoniously with you in the office. I have never wished that he should hold any other position in the office than one of subordination to you. He is younger than you by many years. Compared with you he is inexperienced in business. He is willing to learn, and I have always found him attentive to his work and ready to do what he was told to do. But still I did not wish you to forget that he was your brother and my son, and that he should always be treated as a gentleman. But I am bound to say that, according to my observation, you have always behaved to him as if he were the very opposite of a gentleman, and you could not have treated him worse if he had been an entire stranger to you. I now ask you to well consider the matter before you take a step which you may never be able to recall, that is, to shut my office door to you. You may get on in the world, and no doubt you will, and that without any business assistance from me; but if you should not succeed you may repent having left me when it is too late. Although I wish you well, and shall always do so, I cannot help thinking that if at any future time, perhaps when I am gone, you may wish to come back to the old business, you may find your place filled up and the very brothers with whom now you will have nothing to do, may then decline to have anything to do with you. Besides, there are your own children. If you are taken away from them, who would be so likely to push them on in the world as your own relations, if you had continued on good terms with them? But if you insist on quarrelling with them and entirely alienate yourself from them, it is not likely that they will take any interest in your children. I have put all these to you in the hope that you will well consider them, and I beg of you, more for your own sake than for mine, to turn them well over in your mind. Do not act hastily; stay in the office at any rate until your time is up (which will be at the end of the year), and try in the meantime to meet my wishes a little way. Hormarjee will only make himself useful in the office. He has no desire to do otherwise than get on pleasantly with you. If he acts in such a manner as you consider he ought not to act, report the matter to me, and I will inquire into it; and if I am satisfied that he is in any way to blame, I will see that your complaint is attended to. I think I have said all that I need say in the matter. I do hope you will show some respect to the wishes of your father, and that you will try to meet them a little way, as I have asked you to do in this case.

DISPUTE BETWEEN RELATIVES.

DORABJEE HORMUSJEE vs. DOSSIBAI AND ANOTHER.

THIS is a suit brought by the plaintiff against his sister Dossibai and her husband Cowasjee Jehangeer Jussawalla to recover Rs. 3,000, alleged to be due on a promissory note passed by Dossibai.

Mr. Lang, Advocate-General, and Mr. Budrooddeen, instructed by Messrs. Tobin and Roughton, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Starling and Mr. Farran, instructed by Messrs. Payne and Gilbert, for the defendants.

The plaintiff, when further cross-examined today by Mr. Starling, said.—I showed Mr. Macdermott, the police inspector, all the papers I had. I showed him the promissory note dated the 6th September, 1881, and the letter of the 9th January, 1881. I told him that the note was the receipt for my money advanced to Dossibai. I requested Mr. Macdermott to initial the papers, but he did not. It was not Cowasjee

Commissioner of Police, who told me to sign the paper and produce it in the High Court. When Dorabjee called the next morning he asked me to return the paper. I refused to give it, saying it was not at hand just then.

Q.—Previously to his giving you the paper did you ask him for it? A.—Certainly not. It was brought to me by him entirely on his own motion. Cowasjee told me that Dorabjee had taken away a bundle of papers from his house. Both of them were very much excited at the time.

The witness was then very briefly re-examined.

Mr. Pestonjee Cowasjee, solicitor, said he knew the parties to this suit. He gave evidence as to the letters he had written on behalf of his client, the plaintiff, from time to time. The plaintiff had instructed him to file a suit against Dossibai on a promissory note. The plaintiff afterwards told the witness that the matter had smoothly ended, Dossibai having passed another promissory note. On a subsequent occasion the plaintiff instructed him to file a suit against Dossibai, and to take out an attachment before judgment against her furniture, which was then advertised for sale. Witness did not carry out the instructions, telling the plaintiff that he must prove that Dossibai and her husband were in insolvent circumstances, and that they intended to make away with their property.

In his cross-examination Mr. Pestonjee stated that on the 31st March last the plaintiff changed his solicitor. The witness advised him to do so, because he was disgusted to find that Dossibai, Heerjeebhoy, and Dorabjee were charging one another with perjury and forgery. He was still solicitor for Dorabjee in his suit against Heerjeebhoy. In this suit Heerjeebhoy did not charge Dorabjee with forgery.

The examination of Goolbai, the daughter of the defendants, taken on commission in London, was read by Mr. Budrooddeen.

The case was then adjourned until to-morrow (Friday).

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice LATHAM.)

ALLEGED FRAUDULENT ASSIGNMENT OF PROPERTY.

C. A. TURNER vs. FRAMJEE CURSETJEE JAVEREE.

MR. PAYNE, of Messrs. Payne and Gilbert presented a plaint in chambers on behalf of the plaintiff, who is the Official Assignee, and assignee of the estate and effects of Sorabjee Cursetjee Javeree, an insolvent. The plaint prayed that the assignment executed by the insolvent of his property to his brother, the defendant, might be declared fraudulent and void; that the insolvent's property might be made over to the plaintiff, &c.

The plaint stated that Cursetjee Edaljee Javeree died at Bombay on the 8th October, 1879, leaving him surviving Sorabjee, the insolvent, and the defendant, his only sons. The deceased, under the terms of his last will, left all his property to the two sons in equal shares, with the exception of a few legacies of inconsiderable amount. The will had not been proved, and the plaintiff said that he was not in possession of a copy. The plaintiff made inquiries as to the amount of property left by the testator, and had ascertained that it was of the value of Rs. 1,57,000. After the testator's death the defendant entered into possession and management of the property and estate left by him. Prior to the month of May last the insolvent Sorabjee Cursetjee Javeree owed large sums of money to divers creditors, and was being sued and pressed for payment by them. On the 3rd May last he executed an assignment in favour of his brother, the defendant, whereby for a nominal and untruly recited consideration the insolvent assigned over his undivided share in his father's property to the defendant absolutely. The plaintiff charged that the deed of assignment was fraudulent and void as against him (the plaintiff), as assignee of the estate and effects of the insolvent. The latter had on the 9th January last filed his petition and schedule in the Insolvent Debtors' Court, and an order was issued vesting his property and effects in the Official Assignee. The plaintiff was apprehensive that the defendant would sell the immoveable property, and deprive him of the share of the insolvent, and that the property and assets of the testator were not safe in the hands of the defendant. The plaintiff believed that the defendant was concealing the property, acting in collusion with the insolvent. The plaintiff prayed that the court might declare the assignment dated the 3rd May last, and executed by the insolvent to the defendant, was voluntary, fraudulent, and void; that the estate of the testator Cursetjee Eduljee Javeree might be administered under the direction of the court; that the shares of the insolvent might be ascertained and made over to the plaintiff; and that an injunction might be issued restraining the defendant from selling, alienating, or disposing of the testator's property.

His Lordship accepted the plaint as a long cause.
